Solstice Retail Group
People : Product : Process

People

- Senior ROI worst David 6.0, Kenny 5.8, Harry 4.52
- Inverted incentives Mid-level earns most incentive
- Concentration risk Top 3 reps = 30% of sales
- Junior reps excel Ghabi ROI 12.85- cheapest

Product

- Black Friday drives 42% ₹22M profit · event-dependent
- Clothes leads profit ₹15M · balanced across 4 categories
- Discounts broken Level 1 = ₹15.7M · others <₹5M
- Seasonal slump Mar–Aug trough · no strategy

Process

- Electronics CSAT lowest 2.94·fulfilment issues likely
- Events strain service Black Friday CSAT worst (2.95)
- CSAT crisis 2.98 vs target 3.98 · 1pt gap
- Standard shipping drags CSAT 2.86 · worst method

Customer & Market

- 76% male base Female = biggest growth gap
- Promos backfire New customers buy less with promo
- 50% retention rate Strong base, loyalty potential

Opportunity

Threat/risk

Warning

Neutral

Strategic Verdict
Fix PROCESS first

Strategic Verdict

"If Solstice Retail Group must make one major strategic change—either in PEOPLE, PRODUCT, or PROCESS—to achieve a 15% increase in Net Profit and a 1-point increase in Customer Satisfaction, what should that change be?

If forced to pick just one = the answer is PROCESS.
Here's the reason why:

- Fixing PEOPLE (compensation restructuring) boosts profit, but does not do much for CSAT.
- Fixing PRODUCT (discount strategy, seasonality) boosts profit, but again very little affects CSAT.
- Fixing PROCESS (fulfilment, standard shipping, peak-event operations) directly raises CSAT and protects the profit spikes that come from Black Friday and Christmas Market.

Why Process in detail

For CSAT (+1 point):

- Overhaul standard shipping — it scores 2.86, the lowest of all channels, and is likely the highest volume method. Even lifting it to match Express (3.00) closes ~0.10 points of the gap.
- Build event period operational capacity before Black Friday and Christmas Market. These events drive 42% + 27% of profit respectively, yet Black Friday has the worst CSAT (2.95). The volume surge is straining service quality. More staff, faster fulfilment, and proactive communication during peak windows can earn good amount of CSAT points here alone.
- Address Electronics fulfilment specifically — lowest category CSAT (2.94), likely due to damaged/defective product/delayed items.

For profit (+15%):

- Better process at events protects the ₹22M Black Friday profit spike. If poor service erodes repeat purchase rates, event revenue declines year on year.